30 Million Are To Be Shifted

...To More Essential Jobs

U. S. To Spend 80 Billion For Munitions; Expand Food Rationing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(INS)—The United States government today is preparing to spend $80,000,000,000 on munitions, shift 30,000,000 citizens to new essential jobs and widely expand its food rationing program in the current year as a part of the home front's contribution to victory over the axis powers.

This tremendous agenda—with correction of a critical food situation urgently sought—was disclosed by high government officials testifying in secrecy before the senate military affairs committee earlier this month.

All agreed that the 48-hour week, ordered by President Roosevelt, was vital to a successful prosecution of the war effort.

Army of 8,200,000

The program contemplates an army of 8,200,000 men by the end of 1943, with 2,500,000 in the air force, plus ever-increasing aid to other united nations. It would put 8,100,000 workers on the farms, with an auxiliary force of 3,500,000 to help harvest seasonal crops—even if this means calling on soldiers, women and school children to help in harvest emergencies.

The experts, in advocating the 48-hour week, said it would be equal to adding 500,000 men to our essential war industries and at the same time free 500,000 more workers from non-essential industries.

Some Revelations

Some of the revelations were:

1. By WPB Czar Donald Nelson: The government will spend between $80,000,000,000 and $82,000,000,000 on munitions and construction this year as compared to $48,000,000,000 last year. He also demanded maintenance of civilian services in

2 Nebraska Men Killed In Crash of Army Bomber

ALEXANDRIA, La., Feb. 13—(AP)—Three army men were killed when a plane from Esler field here crashed Wednesday eight miles northeast of Columbia, La., Captain Charles A. E. Goodwin, Esler base intelligence officer, announced today.

The plane was on a routine flight between Alexandria and Monroe, La., Goodwin said.

Among those listed as dead were Second Lieut. Charles R. Weaver, 25, observer, of (509 East Eleventh street) Grand Island, Neb., wife, Maxine J. Weaver, Grand Island; and Staff Sergeant Theodore F. Rydel, 31, gunner, of Rogers, Neb., father, Victor Rydel of Rogers.

BLAZE DESTROYS NORFOLK CLINIC

NORFOLK, Neb. Feb. 13—(AP)—Norfolk's worst fire since the destruction of the old Fair store in January, 1925, early today razed the beautiful Campbell clinic building, with a loss estimated by Fire Chief R. H. Wolff to be approximately $50,000. Wolff said the fire, which started in the southeast corner of the basement in the furnace room, apparently was caused by a broken gas line, the gas being set on fire by the oil burner.

The flames were discovered at 3:30 a. m. by Rex Hash, who lives two houses south of the clinic building, when he drove through the alley behind the structure. He could see the flames through the window in the furnace room. The floor caved in about thirty minutes after firemen arrived.

Fed by gas pouring from the broken line, the flames spread rapidly through the building, and the roof crashed to the basement about two hours after firemen started battling the blaze in weather 9 degrees abovev zero. Only the brick walls of the once beautiful structure were left standing.

TOLL OF FIRE IS BROUGHT TO SIX

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Feb. 13—(AP)—Death of Miss Rosina Palmer, 92, today brought to six the toll taken among elderly patients by fire Thursday night at the B. K. Gravelle nursing home.

The cause of Miss Palmer's death was listed as suffocation, the same cause as for the five patients who succumbed earlier.

Norris Asserts Nazis Must Repudiate Debts Incurred Through War

CHICAGO, Feb. 13—(INS)—Former Sen. George Norris, veteran independent from Nebraska, has given America the warning that there must be no second Versailles after World War II. Norris spoke at a testimonial meeting held in his honor by the Union For Democratic Action and a citizens' sponsoring committee. More than 1,800 persons attended the rally in Orchestra hall Friday night.

"We must approach the altar of peace with clean hearts," he said. "Every hatred, every idea of revenge must be driven out of our minds. We are making the peace for the children of our enemies and our own children as yet unborn, all of whom are innocent.

"Peace should require every one of our enemies to repudiate every war debt. This will make the financier a little more careful about lending his money in the future and also will enable the countries to put their money into a fund that would repay as far as possible the burdens caused by the war.

"We must not do as we did at Versailles, ask that our enemies pay what we know they cannot pay. This would drag them into slavery. We say we are fighting to save the world from slavery under Hitler."

Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, linked Norris with Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln.

"The names of Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and George W. Norris are synonymous with the liberal causes of their day," he asserted. "George Norris will continue to carry the torch of truth into the byways of our national life and wherever the well being of the common man is at stake, there he will be found, fighting, throughout the useful years that lie ahead of him."

Maury Maverick, former congressman from Texas, stepped to the platform to pay an unscheduled tribute to Norris.

"My boy, a marine in the South Pacific, wrote to me that the defeat of Senator Norris was the greatest sadness he had had in that far corner of the world," Maverick asserted. "The boys on the battlefield haven't forgotten that they're fighting for democracy, and they want to see that democracy is preserved in America."

Other speakers included Miss Helen Gahagan, democratic national committeewoman from California, and James G. Patton, president of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative union.

LADY NANCY ASTOR . . .
"this is no time for catch words"

Lady Astor Replies To Mrs. Luce

...Asks Definition

PLYMOUTH, England, Feb. 13—(AP)—"This is no time for catch-words," Lady Nancy Astor said today in reply to the maiden speech in congress of Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn.)

"What does 'globaloney' mean anyway?" asked the Virginia-born Lady Astor, first woman to sit in the British parliament. She referred to Mrs. Luce's one-word definition of Vice President Wallace's outline of post-war aims.

"If we, the great democracies, do not agree to co-operate," Lady Astor continued in an interview, "then what is this war about? It is not for a bigger and better British empire or a bigger and better United States but for a bigger and better world where young men will not have to give their lives every 25 years."

Mrs. Luce had accused Britain of planning to profit after the war by U. S. development of air routes over which supplies now are flown.

Lady Astor said she was disinclined to engage in a personal trans-ocean controversy with Rep. Luce, but added that she hoped to visit her native land after the war to talk to women about post-war problems.

Rubber Plants Pact Is Denied

...By State Department

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—State department officials declared today the United States has entered into no agreements with South American rubber-producing countries calling for the scrapping of U. S. synthetic rubber plants after the war.

William J. Hale, research consultant for the Dow Chemical Co., had said in a Minneapolis speech that an unpublicized trade treaty proposed with South American nations pledges the United States to post-war dismantling of its synthetic factories. The state department officials, who asked not to be identified, said any allegation that such an agreement has been proposed or signed is unfounded.

Nebraska Counties To Be Left Out Of Sioux City OPA Area

The Knox county board and others in the northeast corner of Nebraska are apparently not to be required to deal with the OPA office at Sioux City after all. John D. Forsyth, chairman of the Knox county board, who recently protested against his county being placed in the Sioux City district, has received a letter from Henry E. Niles, organization branch officer under Prentiss D. Brown, OPA administrator, in which it is stated that it has been decided not to set up any new districts which cross state lines.

Mr. Niles says: "The reason for district lines crossing state lines was in order to have the district coincide with the normal trading areas and to make it easier for the citizens of the county to deal with OPA. However, when the majority of the citizens prefer some other arrangement, we certainly will attempt to meet their wishes."

C. V. Connelly, Lincoln, Finds Convoy Service Thrilling

Seaman Charles V. "Chick" Connelly, is home from the east coast where he has been on duty since last July in the U. S. Maritime service. Accompanied by his wife, he is visiting his mother, Mrs. T. E. Connelly, 6429 Morrill avenue, and other relatives. Before joining the service "Chick" had been a printer in the Lincoln Star composing room.

Since serving his apprenticeship Connelly has been on an oil tanker in the Atlantic convoy service and says there is no branch of the armed forces which can equal the Maritime service. He has been off Iceland, and visited Ireland. In Erin, he says, people are willing to trade "almost anything" for American cigarets, and a number of other things the men have regularly.

Although he enjoys sea life, Connelly said "it is tough, especially when it is rough in the north Atlantic. And believe me, it can and does get cold up there." He believes there are no navy men in the world who equal those of Uncle Sam, and in proof of his contention points to the fact that no other navy will even attempt to refuel at sea, as does the American navy.

There are many beautiful sights from the deck of any kind of a ship, according to Connelly. The most beautiful he has seen thus far was the Aurora Borealis, one of which he witnessed while in the north Atlantic.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Connelly was Miss Margaret Merchant of Beatrice.

DISASTER PACE QUICKENS FOR INVADERS OF RUSSIA

Stalingrad Defeat May Be Eclipsed In New Battles

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(INS)—German troops were reported today to be setting the city of Rostov afire, apparently in preparation for complete evacuation, a CBS broadcast from Moscow said.

CBS Moscow Correspondent Bill Downs said the reports, though unconfirmed, were being circulated freely in Moscow.

(By the Associated Press.)

The pace of disaster quickened for Adolf Hitler's invasion armies today, threatening to surpass even the debacle at Stalingrad, as soviet columns raced 30 miles south toward the Sea of Azov and left only a 70-mile-wide "escape corridor" for upwards of 500,000 axis soldiers.

The CBS correspondent in Moscow said the Germans were reported setting fire to the entire city of Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus.

Simultaneously, the British radio declared:

"Rostov is being rapidly enveloped and the Germans who were driven out of Shakhty, 45 miles to the northeast, did not retreat toward Rostov but are attempting to get away to the westward.

Nearly 200,000 additional German troops and their satellites were reported fighting for their lives in the western Caucasus, pinned against a narrow coastal strip below Rostov.

In a series of victory bulletins, the Russian command announced the capture of eight strategic cities and towns, including the key rail center of Krasnodar in the Caucasus, and declared that Governor Griswold signed six bills Saturday morning. They are:

LB 37, be Senator Matzke, provides that officers in the armed services may take acknowledgements.

LB 39, by Raecke, provides that county clerk as ex-officio register of deeds may charge a flat fee of 15 cents for recording instruments.

LB 42, by Raecke provides that either the husband or wife may be a competent witness against the other in a criminal prosecution charging rape, adultery, incest, or any other crime committed by one against the other.

LB 90, by Rakow, provides that the brand inspection area shall cover the entire state of Nebraska instead of the 42 counties now listed.

Possibility Seen OPA State Office To Stay In Lincoln

...'Suitable Quarters Lacking in Omaha'

OMAHA, Feb. 13—(AP)—The Omaha World-Herald said today that opening of a district OPA office here is not a certainty.

The newspaper said Dwight Felton, state OPA director, slated to head the district office in Omaha, believes the Kresge building, scheduled office site, is not satisfactory and that he said the office of emergency management in Kansas City had informed him there was "nothing available" in Omaha.

Felton, the story added, has not altered his views opposing transfer of the office from Lincoln to Omaha, but said the OPA in Washington apparently is going through with the change.

Commissioner Frank Fogarty of the chamber of commerce challenged Felton's statement that no suitable office space is available, declaring at least two buildings offer the facilities requested.

Platte Water Diversion Agreement Is Now Ready

HASTINGS, Neb., Feb. 13—(AP)—The agreement which provides water for expansion of irrigation without the Platte valley watershed awaits the signatures of officials of the Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation district and the Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation district. Claude Miller, president of the Tri-county board, is expected to sign, and the agreement will be presented immediately to the Platte Valley. Terms of the agreement were approved by the Tri-county board earlier this week.

Application of the agreement is contingent upon passage of LB 253 before the legislature which would permit diversion of water from storage in the Kingsley dam for irrigation of land in the Tri-county district lying outside the Platte valley watershed. It would guarantee the Platte valley water from the Tri-county storage sufficient to irrigate 100,000 acres now undeveloped. It provides for a maximum of one foot of water per acre, and would terminate in 10 years.

Opposition to the bill was voiced at a meeting of Platte valley interests in Kearney Thursday night. A committee was organized and it succeeded in getting the legislative public works committee to delay a hearing on the bill until Feb. 24.

Tri-county engineers estimate that it would enable the Platte valley to develop all of the acreage suitable to irrigation extension in the valley which can be reached from the Platte valley system. The engineers declare that the storage water which will be made available by Kingsley dam and other Tri-county storage will be adequate to meet all the valley needs and to develop a maximum of 500,000 acres of irrigation in the Tri-county district.

Spokesmen at the Kearney meeting however, asserted the ten-year period is not long enough to develop fully irrigation in the Platte valley.

If the agreement goes into operation it would mark the end of a long controversy over use of Platte water for irrigation. The agreement explains that it is not the desire of those seeking passage of the water diversion amendment to injure "or adversely affect the development of the Platte valley or to prevent expansion of irrigation in the Platte valley that may be reasonably anticipated."

185,000 Tons Steel For Farm Machinery

...Wickard Gets Results

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—To meet demands of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, the war production board has earmarked 185,000 tons of steel for delivery in the second quarter for production of farm machinery.

The allocation, WPB said, will make possible the manufacture of farm equipment at the rate of 40 per cent of 1940. Wickard had protested that WPB's original allocations for the year would hold down output to 20 per cent.

Production of repair parts in the second quarter has been scheduled at 167 per cent of 1940, the same as the first quarter.

Allies To Strike At Nippons "In Skies Over China—And Over Japan Itself"; Uses Plural In Forecasting "Actual Invasions" Of The European Continent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—President Roosevelt followed up his promise of "actual invasions" of Europe and blows against the Japanese homeland with a conference at the white house today with top military leaders.

Admiral William D. Leahy, his chief of staff, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, fleet commander-in-chief, called even as telegrams by the score poured in congratulating the president for his assurance last night that "great and decisive actions" are in store against the enemy.

He also gave assurance that the united nations were in this war until they march in triumph through the streets of Berlin, Rome and Tokyo and were determined that the nazi, fascist or Japanese war-lord form of government shall "never again" dominate a nation guaranteed post-war self-determination.

The chief executive made these declarations last night in a radio address from the 20th annual dinner of the White House Correspondents' association. It was his first war review since his Casablanca "unconditional surrender" conference with Prime Minister Churchill.

Sees Heavy Allied Losses

He spoke of worldwide offensives stemming from that conference and of the developing battle of Tunisia with its expected "heavy" losses on the allied side in the attempt to push the enemy into the sea and open the way for what he called "invasions"—he used the plural twice—of the European continent.

He described the whole world today as one neighborhood" and said unless the peace that follows this war recognizes this and does justice to the human race, the ger... of another world war "will remain as a constant threat to mankind."

Reassures Soldiers

On the home front, the president sa i that on his African journey he had told American soldiers and sailors who had expressed concern over reports of labor troubles and rationing complaints at home that most of these reports were "just gross exagerations" and that the people as a whole were only too willing to give up shoes and sugar, and coffee and automobile riding—and privileges and profits for the sak.. of the common cause.

He said he told them, however, there were a few chiselers, a few politicians, and a few publicists—fortunately a very few—who had

Solons Plan Speed Up Of Committees

...Too Much Time Spent On Bills, Is Concensus

Pulled over on a siding to await the start of its seventh week, engineers of Nebraska's unicameral express were deciding Saturday it might have been best to slow down a bit in passing the whistle stops.

Here's the situation:

For the most part, too much time has been consumed in committees for the amount of progress made.

A positive example came only last Thursday. Three committees split seven bills. When the afternoon was over, deferred action was awarded each of the measures.

Senator Jack Doyle, chairman of the government committee, already has taken steps to have his group get caught up with their work.

To Speed Up Work

Next Wednesday night, Doyle's committee plans to meet in an effort either to report out to general file or indefinitely postpone a dozen measures.

Senator Martin Mischke's public works group attempted only yesterday to get caught up with its backlog. Thirteen measures paraded before the committee.

Three were reported out, another trio killed while seven remained for future consideration.

The initial whisper that the legislators would be doing business at the old stand on Saturdays came along yesterday.

But the rumor didn't materialize and the urge to get away over the week-end prevailed.

Best debate of the week—and of the session for that matter—came along last Tuesday when Senator Frank Sorrell's alcohol blend bill went to the ashpile.

The current bill total now stands at 409. Governor Griswold already has signed into law seven measures, while 27 bills have met death either in committee or on the floor.

Regardless of committees taking their time, the 1943 session is far ahead of the standard set up by the two previous legislatures.

Any time after April 15 looks to be a good guess as to adjournment with the first week in May as the maximum.

'Conserve For Victory' Is Theme Of Home Economists Meeting Here

Make your household and kitchen equipment last.

Cover metals on and in your house with rust resisting oils.

Protect electrical equipment most carefully from careless use and have it inspected frequently.

Take diligent care of your household rubber equipment.

Protect the life of your radio set.

Eat the right food daily and don't crowd use of foods that may soon become scarce.

Watch waste going into garbage pails.

Eat cheaper cuts of meat, for they're good when properly prepared.

For the United States is at war—how far in, few householders seem to realize—and the time may soon come when today's plenty will seem luxury.

Asks Food Goals Reached.

These slogans and cautions, and dozens more like them, fairly bristled from every spot in the program of the Nebraska Home Economics association which held an all-day session at the Cornhusker hotel Saturday. Attending were representative college, university and high school economics teachers, women of the University of Nebraska extension courses, directors of public health, leaders in adult education, dieticians, and representatives of business groups anxious to prepare housewives along the tortuous rationing path.

Nearly 200 women heard Miss Florence J. Atwood, associate state director of the farm security administration and president of the Home Economics association, urge them to gear their programs to wartime activities. She challenged each home economist to share in helping the state reach the food production goals that have been requested.

Work for "Better America."

"Our military forces are depending on us, the united nations are depending on us, millions of enslaved people, starving in the conquered countries long for the day when American food will follow the American flag in the march of liberation," Miss Atwood said.

"For the time being," she continued, "we are called upon to turn our backs on many of our former peacetime goals. Nevertheless, if we can have the courage not to fear changes, we can have a better America and a better world." Each must conduct himself as if the whole struggle depended on himself alone.

Dr. Nels A. Bengtson, dean of the junior division and chairman of geography department of the University of Nebraska, said that the war will teach "fellowship of nations."

Sectional Meetings.

Sectional meetings were held as follows: Textiles and clothing, with Miss Lillian Brehm of the University of Nebraska presiding; foods and nutrition, with Mrs. Marjorie Low King, vocational home making, Omaha Technical high school; housing and equipment, Mrs. Esther Ord Wells, home management supervisor, farm security administration, Omaha; and institutional administration and business, Miss Jessie Amos, head institution administration division and director of agricultural college cafeteria, University of Nebraska.

Service Men Yearn For 'Homey' Meals; Even Wash the Dishes

"Most soldiers are lonesome for good home-cooked food, or a sensible talk with people who understand their feelings," said Charles Shire, assistant to Sam Poska, "colonel" in charge of soldier entertainment for this week. "If most of us only realized how much they appreciate this we would do more for them."

"This story illustrates how most soldiers feel," said Mr. Shire. "Two soldiers who had been invited to a home had finished eating with the family when their hostess was called away from the house. On her return she found the two soldiers in the kitchen, they had washed the dishes and were busily cleaning the stove, having taken it apart."

Other stories have been told of soldiers helping their hostesses serve and helping in the kitchen to prepare the dinner.

Assisting in the Sunday work of introducing hosts and soldiers are Leonard Krenk, Clarice Morey, J. E. Alexander, Carl Vanderslice, Fay Rumbaugh, Frankie Burnham, Virginia Williams, Helen Chowins, Miss Mildred Stanley, Mrs. Allie Estes. Urge To Drive Autos Leads 2 Lincoln Boys To Thefts and Arrest

After being arrested Friday night by police, two Lincoln youths admitted five automobile thefts within the past two months.

An auto belonging to LeRoy Nelson, of Mead, was stolen at 3427 Dudley street and another car was stolen from a garage in the rear of George Clark's residence at 3502 W street Friday night.

Motorcycle Officer George Vlasnik apprehended one of the youths driving Nelson's car near Twelfth and Garfield about 9:30 p. m. The boy admitted he stole the car and told police about the theft of Clark's auto by his partner. Clark's car was found where it had been parked by the other boy.

Upon questioning, the youths admitted three other car thefts. On Thursday night, they admitted stealing a car belonging to George Haberlin of 3258 Orchard street, and returning it two hours later. They also confessed to taking a car which belonged to one of the boys' mother and on two successive nights taking a car belonging to the same boy's aunt.

"We like to drive automobiles," was the only explanation the boys gave to police.

They will be turned over to juvenile authorities.

Many Organizations Are Represented At Luncheon

Representatives from many of the civic and social welfare organizations in Lincoln were in attendance at the luncheon given by the Lincoln Council of Girl Scouts Friday at Hotel Cornhusker, as a courtesy to a member of the Girl Scouts national staff, Miss Odela Shrottky of New York City.

Miss Shrottky, whose Girl Scout work includes public relations, community service and program planning, talked on the problems confronting the American home, and expressed concern over the increase in delinquency among the girls. She urged that all organizations work together in an effort to keep the homes as normal as possible during this war period, and presented intensely interesting and dramatic illustrations of the result of not keeping the home front a sane and therefore safe place for youth.

During WAAC Week, Second Officer Gwendolyn Harvey will be at the local army recruiting station, 434 postoffice building, for the purpose of interviewing and conducting mental examinations for women who wish immediate action.

Throughout the week Officer Harvey will conduct meetings of various women's organizations in the interest of the corps, and on Thursday evening an open meeting, which all women are invited to attend, will be held at the Cornhusker hotel.

Designed to replace men in the army, thus liberating them for combat service, WAAC will accept for enlistment women between the ages of 21 and 44, whether or not they have a high degree of skill in any particular specialty, Sgt. J. P. Yocum, of the local recruiting station, said.

Liquor Dealer Admits False Inventory; Is Fined In Federal Court

Thomas S. Drbal, Garland liquor dealer, pleaded guilty in Federal court Saturday to a charge of making a false inventory with the intent to defraud the U. S. government. Judge John W. Delehant fined Drbal $75 and costs and penalized him $75.

On motion of U. S. Attorney Fred Hawxby, counts one and two of the indictment which was returned by a grand jury Feb. 10, were dismissed. Count one alleged that Drbal had 77 proof gallons stored in his house and store when asked to make an inventory. Count two alleged that Drbal had concealed the whiskey with the intent to defraud the government.

Two Others Fined.

After pleading guilty to a postal violation charge, Richard Oakley was fined $50 and costs by Judge Delehant. On motion of Hawxby, the first two counts of the indictment which was returned by a grand jury on April 16, 1942, were dismissed. Count three to which Oakley pleaded guilty alleged that on November 17, 1941, he stole a letter addressed to Jean Rivett from a mail box at 1344 D street.

Charged with making false statements when registering under the Alien registration act on Oct. 24, 1940, Hynek Jaros, of Milligan, pleaded guilty before Judge Delehant Friday. He was fined $25 and costs. The indictment, returned Feb. 10, alleges that Jaros had falsely answered that he had never been arrested or convicted on any offense. In truth, the indictment alleges, Jaros was fined $100 in 1919 for unlawful possession of alcoholic liquor.

"Marines were surging ashore everywhere."

"They hacked at the jungle."

"The Japs were after our ships . . ."

"Night made the sentries jittery."

FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, Cont.—As our landing boat slid up on the beach, I jumped over the bow and joined the Marines who were surging ashore everywhere. We were still puzzled by the lack of opposition. "There's a little firing in there," said a grizzled Marine veteran, motioning toward the jungle. "Looks like the Japs'll take to the hills. It's another Nicaragua—this place'll be alive with 'em later, fighting in the jungle."

I set out to catch up with fast-moving Col. Hunt, who had evaporated from the beach, taking his staff with him. I passed through the coastal belt of cocoanut palms, then through a beaten path cutting through a field of shoulder-high parched grass, and then into the thick, shadowy jungle. Beyond the stagnant Ilu River, it was easy to make one's way through the dank jungle, for the Marines had hacked a swath three or four feet wide, penetrating miles into the interior. The advance elements of Marines were thousands of yards beyond that—and scarcely two hours had elapsed since our first wave hit the beach!

I found Col. Hunt's command post, as it was called; actually only an undistinguished part of the jungle, where communications men were busy installing field telephones. We had a ration-can lunch, and then at 1:30, the Japs staged their first air raid. I heard the quick, basso "whoomp, whoomp, whoomp" of anti-aircraft fire, and saw the sky fill with dark brown smudges of shell bursts. It was evident that the Japs were after our ships in the bay. A flight of 18 of our fighter planes swung across the sky, the whine of diving aircraft reached a crescendo, and in a few minutes the raid was over.

With the coming of the dark, the macaws began to squeal in the tree-tops. The sentries were jittery on their first night on the island. I awoke many times to hear the call of "Halt!" followed almost immediately by gunfire.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 8—A runner came back from our foremost elements this morning to report that the airport, prize of the invasion, has been reached without contacting the enemy!

It was just noon when the quick-paced "whoomp-whoomp" of anti-aircraft fire opened up again, and I could see the dark bursts plastering the whole dome of the sky over Tulagi. The Jap planes were back after our ships—our lifeline.

20-Ounce Loaf Is (Not) Best Kitchen Size

..Women Experts, Before Solons, Can't Agree

Whether Nebraska bread should be sold in 20-ounce loaves is apparently a moot question upon which even those experts of the kitchen, the housewives, cannot reach agreement.

Occasion for the argument was a hearing before the legislature's public health committee yesterday on two bills—one by Senator Hubka, Beatrice, which would legalize baking of 20-ounce loaves of plain bread, and one by Senator Klaver, Omaha, which would outlaw 20-ounce loaves entirely. Only fancy bread is now baked in 20-ounce loaves.

Counting on the effect of introducing feminene experts into the predominantly male group in the hearing room, Hubka produced Mrs. Dean Cawre and Mrs. Elizabeth Riner, both of Omaha. The ladies agreed the 20-ounce loaf is best suited for the housewife.

But Klaver also had a witness—Mrs. Louis Maupin of Lincoln. She declared a 20-ounce loaf was an odd size for most families and would lead to confusion among purchasers.

The committee tactfully deferred action.

Klaver's bill, LB 118, would bring fancy bread under the present law calling for loaves of a half pound, pound, pound and a half and exact multiples of a pound. Hubka's measure, LB 246, also would require the price and weight to be printed on the wrapper.

Bakers Fight Klaver Measure.

Bakers from Omaha, Lincoln, Hastings, Crete, Grand Island, Kearney and other towns rallied to the support of Hubka's bill and fought Klaver's measure. Hubka and his witnesses told the committee all states surrounding Nebraska except South Dakota permit 20-ounce loaves, placing Nebraska bakers at a disadvantage in out-of-the-state trade.

Hubka's bill also drew support from Louis Kavan, representing Omaha grocers, and David Weinberg, attorney for the Omaha Bakery Drivers Union, who said the State Federation of Labor supported the bill and that drivers had told him housewives bought more 20-ounce loaves than any other size.

Amendment of a bill introduced by Senator Doyle, Greeley, to ban sale of fireworks outside the corporate limits of any city or village appeared likely after it was pointed out his measure, LB 150, would drive wholesalers located outside corporate limits out of business. Doyle said he was willing that the measure be amended to apply only to retailers.

Appearing on behalf of the bill were Ralph Robbins, Omaha, of the Bakery Drivers and Teamsters Unions; Roy Brewer, president of the Nebraska Federation of Labor; Thomas Katron, Omaha, bakery worker, H. G. Christman, Kearney; Mrs. Dean Coure, Omaha, League of Women Voters; Mrs. Elizabeth Riner, Omaha, and Milton Peterson of the Peter Pan Baking company.

WAR LOSS OF MILLION MEN SEEN IN '43

...For America

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(INS)—Sen. Rufus C. Holman (R.-Ore.) today warned the American people to steel themselves for an expectancy of 1,000,000 war casualties during the present year.

Holan's warning came close after President Roosevelt in his radio speech last night and Secretary of War Stimson in his weekly press conference declared that casualties would be heavy.

"I have a notion there will be at least a million casualties in combat by the end of 1943," Holman said.

Holman, a member of the military affairs committee, made the statement in the course of a criticism of what he termed the administration's policy of keeping facts from the people.

"The time has come," the Oregon senator said, "to let light into the dark places and let the American people know the truth and the whole truth about the conduct of the war."

WEBB FACING COURTMARTIAL AFTER ARREST

...Escapes Army Base

RENO, Nev., Feb. 13—(INS)—Nine hours after he escaped from an army air base hospital near Reno, Jacob L. Webb, 24-year-old great grandson of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, was apprehended by police today. Webb faces courtmartial for allegedly impersonating an officer.

He was found in a cheap hotel, still wearing the bright red robe he wore when he made his getaway from the hospital.

Police who arrested Webb said he told them he had walked eight miles and had taken a cab for two miles to get to the hotel.

Young Webb, a private in the army, faced courtmartial, according to the army, for "deceiving the public and bringing disgrace to the uniform of the United States."

The army added that "necessary steps are being taken by military authorities to render punishment for his acts."

His "acts" included going absent without leave from Ft. McDowell, Cal., last Jan. 31, the alleged passing of bogus checks and the wearing of a captain's uniform.

Alf Landon Charges 'Nazi New Dealers' Control Demo Party

OMAHA, Feb. 13 — (AP) — Charging "nazi new dealers" have seized control of the democratic party, former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas last night urged the people to take charge of the government "through a coalition of real democrats and the republican party." This should be done, the former republican presidential nominee told a republican Lincoln day banquet, to guarantee that Vice President Wallace "and his fellow travelers will not lead us down the same disastrous primrose path which Hitler has led his people.

Landon also asserted "the tangle of domestic policies and managing bureaucracy which prevented our return to prosperity under the Roosevelt administration is preventing an efficient prosecution of the war."

Ex-Bund Chief Hein Is Back In Frisco

...This Time In Jail

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13—(INS)—Gottfried Karl Hein, 39, ex-bund leader, was back in San Francisco today—where he was once known as the "Little Fuehrer"—but this time he was in jail.

Hein was arrested in Los Angeles several days ago on a federal grand jury indictment charging him with violations of the selective service act.

His "companion in exile," Auguste Katherine Clauss, former servant girl of Berkeley, Cal., was still in a Los Angeles jail.

FBI agents said that the paid fled from San Francisco last September.

Hein, who once reputedly relayed Hitler's orders to German bundists in the bay area, was slated to appear before Federal Judge A. F. St. Sure later today.

GRACE MOORE SINGS FOR

smallest audience

... ONE SOLDIER

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13 — (AP) — Grace Moore recently sang to her smallest audience — one soldier, it was related today.

Staff Sergt. William Pritchard, a dinner guest with eight other soldiers at the Jules Bache home, declared himself a music lover. Mrs. Gilbert Miller, wife of the New York producer, called Miss Moore, visiting at Pompano, Fla., on the telephone.

"Will you sing over the telephone for this soldier?" asked Mrs. Miller.

"Certainly. What would he like to hear?" Miss Moore responded.

Pritchard chose "One Night of Love." Miss Moore obliged.

Bureaucracies Are Flayed By GOP Speakers

...Coalition Urged

(By the Associated Press.)

A call for a coalition of republicans and "real democrats," coupled with an attack on "arrogant bureaucracy" and criticism of the administration's conduct of the war, highlighted the traditional Lincoln day gatherings of republicans last night.

Alf M. Landon, the party's 1936 presidential candidate; Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, mentioned as a republican presidential possibility for 1944; and Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, minority leader of the house and republican former national chairman, joined in assailing what Martin described as "expanding, arrogant bureaucracy."

Knox's Note Different.

Secretary of the Navy Knox, emphasizing he was a republican, struck another note, however, at Springfield, Ill., scene of Lincoln's tomb. Recalling that Lincoln had been subjected to critisism, Knox said:

"We see history repeating itself. Our president, our leaders have been subjected to all the same familiar charges of 80 years ago. We have seen again in these hours of another supreme struggle the same temptations of partisan advantage obstruct our larger purposes."

Landon, speaking at Omaha, proposed the democrat-republican coalition as a guarantee that Vice President Wallace "and his fellow travelers will not lead us down the same disastrous primrose path which Hitler has led his people."

Bureaucrats Charged.

Bricker, speaking at Nashville, Tenn., charged that "a lot of these beaucrats x x x are especially contemptuous of elected representatives of the people" and we "even find some in high places who are unpatriotic enough to use the war as a means of imposing their peculiar philosophy of un-American government on our people."

Martin, at Pittsburgh, declared the people "are dangerously close to losing their system of free government when a bureaucrat can put into effect, on his own initiative, regulations which congress has turned down."

Martin said his party intends to curb "bureaucracy" by ending "blank check" appropriations.

--COMMITTEE HEARINGS--

COST OF JAIL MEALS PROBED

...Gutoski Bill Would Stop Sheriff's Fund

Senator Peter Gutoski's efforts to take the feeding of prisoners away from Douglas County Sheriff William H. Dorrance and the subsequent battle that such should not be put on a cost basis were temporarily stalled Friday by the government committee.

Because of the late hour and other business on hand, the committee adjourned without taking any action.

"I feel the present system is wrong," stated Gutoski in his opening remarks on LB 138. "If one nickel of profit is made by the sheriff, it can't be right."

The measure would have the sheriff continuing to feed Douglas county prisoners, but the cost would be paid by the county on an actual basis.

Dorrance receives 45 cents per days for feeding each prisoner.

Makes Comparison.

Gutoski argued that Douglas county hospital patients, who must be served a special diet, require only 35 cents per day in comparison. He added that the daily food cost at the state penitentiary was 27 cents per individual.

Mrs. Mary Hughes, Omaha, representing the league of women voters, and Walter Pierpont, Omaha, representing the association of taxpayers, both favored the bill.

Seymour Smith, Omaha, attorney for Dorrance, maintained the measure was unconstitutional. Others to oppose the bill were William Condit, former state sheriff, and four Omaha women representing home owners and various political organizations.

Questioned by Senator Tom Osborne as to what the feeding of the prisoners is worth," Sheriff Dorrance refused to answer.

"I shouldn't be forced to tell that," he seriously remarked.

Dorrance's annual salary is $4,000.

THREE MOTORS BILLS 'AXED'

...Public Works Group Enjoys Busy Session

Chairman Martin Mischke's public works committee had a field day Friday. Picking up the tempo somewhat, the group killed three measures, reported an additional trio out to general file and deferred action on two others.

Senator Dan Garber's LB 254, which would have limited the amount paid out of drivers' license fees for support of the highway patrol to the specific amount appropriated, headed the bills feeling the axe.

Senator Tony Asimus' LB 222, which would have reduced the amount of application fee for motor carrier certificates and the annual fee from $7.50 to $1, also was killed as was Speaker Robert Crosby's LB 77, to provide that trucks and trailers carry the letter "F" on their license plates.

The three bills reported out were:

LB 152, enables cities of the second class and villages to make small sidewalk construction and repairs without creating an improvement district and assesses cost against the property owner.

LB 171, authorizes irrigation district to sell, but not for less than the amount bid, any lands acquired by tax sales foreclosure.

LB 259, authorizes highway department to cooperate with the federal roads administration in the construction and maintenance of flight strips and of certain classes of highways to facilitate the war effort.

U. S. Stock Of Rubber Holding Up

...Better Than Expected

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—The nation's rubber stockpile is holding up better than predicted by the Baruch committee.

In disclosing this today, however, aides of Rubber Director William M. Jeffers said the savings of aproximately 40,000 tons in the final six months of 1942, as compared with committee estimates, was too small to be a major factor in solving the rubber problem.

At the end of the year, the latest figure available, the stockpile totaled about 420,000 tons.

While agreeing with the committee's recommendation for "safeguarding jealously every ounce of rubber in the country," officials said the key to the rubber problem was completion of the synthetic program.

Crisis Thought Averted

Jeffers recently obtained directives assuring him of necessary materials for completion of 43.6 per cent of the Buna S program by mid-July, with the remainder of the program fitted in with production of high octane gasoline, airplanes, merchant ships and escort vessels.

Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board said he felt certain the Buna S. go-ahead would avert a rubber crisis next fall.

One factor keeping the rate of the stockpile's decline below estimates of the Baruch committee was believed to be the continued availability of crude from sources which the committee feared might be lost to the Japanese. Ceylon, in the Indian ocean, for example, has remained under allied control.

Boy, 8, Falls 25 Ft. From Window Ledge; Only Slightly Hurt

A twenty-five foot fall from the first floor ledge of the state capitol building to the pavement below was all in a day's play to eight-year-old Roger Jacobs, who was reported in fair condition by Lincoln General hospital attendants Saturday.

Roger, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Jacobs, of 501 South Thirteenth street, and a companion were walking on the ledge on the south side of the building when he lost his balance and fell. The boy landed on his feet injuring both his ankles.

His Three Best Jobs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—A 19-year-old draft registrant, selective service headquarters disclosed today, gave these answers, in filling out the occupational questionnaire sent him by his board:

Under Item 28, "job for which you are next best iftted," he stated: "Shooting Germans."

And under Item 31, "duties of job for which you are next best fitted," he finished it off with this: "Shooting Italians."

What Peace Should Mean To The Germans

FEW WERE the echoes of a vital week of war reflecting thoughts of peace. That note injected by Herbert Hoover and others recently, looking towards the future subsided as suddenly as it developed, when the governments of those nations engaged in battling the axis powers concentrated all of their energy to capitalizing upon the gratifying successes achieved on far-flung battlefronts.

Now Is the Time

THE victories in Russia, the victories in the southwest Pacific, and the approaching last-ditch struggle in north Africa monopolized attention almost exclusively but not wholly. In New York City, Under-secretary of State Sumner Wells, the meticulous, crisp-spoken representative of the foreign department, opening a week at Rockefeller center dedicated to the united nations, said now was the time for the peoples of the united nations to be thinking of the post war period. A kernel of wheat in that observation.

No Bill of Particulars

FOR obvious reasons Sumner Welle did not plunge into the water too deeply. He was speaking for the state department; for the government of the United States and the precise conditions of the post war world are not to be laid out in the manner of a suit of clothes at this time. But he did mention policing of the world to secure its safety, and development of industry, trade and commerce to check its impoverishment. It would be a brash governmental spokesman indeed, and an impulsive citizen in private life who attempted in any exacting detail to prescribe the pattern for a post war world so sorely troubled so much of the time.

At the Root of Evil

RECENTLY the president of the national manufacturers' association exploded figuratively. In effect he said let's be done with any idea of TVA's on the Danube. Let's be done with all of this dreamy-eyed star-gazing that seems to grip certain individuals in Washington, and inferentially that seems to cause them to bid farewell to reason, intelligence, and common sense. This is a practical world. It may not be amiss to suggest there have been times when there has been serious reason to doubt its intelligence, its practicability, and its common sense. It's pretty difficult to read reason into any mad impulse to kill each other off on a wholesale scale, and to burden peoples with debts that even generations will have difficulty in discharging. It simply does not make sense on the basis of intelligence, and yet it happens.

Which Road to Take?

SEVENTY years of history seemed to have established one basic fact. The German government looked out upon the world as it was, and said to itself that Germany's road to success and to preeminence in a material sense rested upon taking the world as it was apart by force or by military power. Frequently hair-brained bank robbers, highwaymen, and footpads have come to the same conclusion. With their dynamite, their guns, and their brass knuckles they proceeded to take a small existing world apart by force. Eventually they landed in prison, for a few years or permanently, because the world finds it difficult to live peacefully with a criminal at large.

Its Own People

ACTUALLY the German government in its plans of aggression in this and other wars has acted criminally, and the most pitiful victims of its criminality have been its own people. Ultimately force was turned back, and in the turning back the chief sufferers, of course, have been the German people themselves. That portion or part of the German people, large or small, and on the basis of the evidence embodied in the rise of the nazi regime to power it must be large, have acted criminally towards themselves, towards Holland, towards Belgium, towards Czechoslovakia, towards Poland, towards Denmark, towards Norway, towards France, towards Greece, towards Yugoslavia, towards Russia, and towards the world. It is all right for people who desire to do so to say that Hitler did not have the support of his people but the evidence available for the hundreds of millions outside of Germany incontrovertibly says otherwise.

False Shepherds

THE trouble has been that the leadership of Germany, of Japan, and of Italy for a lesser period of time, has been that of the false shepherd. It has preached war, planned and prepared for war, and initiated war. It has lived war publicly and privately. It never has seen any merit to peace. It never has believed that it could attain any measure of comfort or any degree of happiness through peace. It has thought consistently through the years that its happiness and its glory lay in resort to the sword. It has taken the labors of its people, the back-breaking labors of its people and diverted them to pay the cost of frightfully expensive armaments. It has taken 90 cents out of every dollar of peaceful wealth produced in these countries to gamble upon winning a great stake through war.

Different Approach

IF ONLY once there had been a genuine, sincere approach of different character. These governments of the united nations can and should say to the people of Germany: "Take the fruits of the days spent in the fields and in the factories, in the laboratories, and on the seas and use them for yourselves. Spend them for the things that you need in your home, to brighten and make your life more pleasant. Do not permit them to be spent for tanks and planes and guns and explosives whose only use could be to kill off millions of innocent men, women and children."

Back to TVA's

IT MAY not have occurred to this hard, cold, matter-of-fact "sensible and realistic spokesman" for the National Manufacturers' association that the people of the greater reich would have been a million times better off if all the billions poured into war equipment had been spent for automobiles, refrigerators, house furnishings and household appliances than poured into a luftwaffe that made a ruin of European cities and countrysides. He isn't being sensible. He is being foolish. The fact is the world can't afford the luxury of war. The fact is the world never has desired sufficiently to rid itself of the expense of war to accomplish anything substantial in that direction.

Sense of Shame

THERE is that peculiar condition that brings contempt and derision upon the head and shoulders of anyone who suggests it's decent to think of decent things. Something must be wrong with them. They either must be crack-pots, dreamers, or balmy idealists, loose in the upper story, and subject to confinement along with the other mad people, the mad people mentally, in this world.

Into the Future

NO ONE dared dream of the day when in Germany the fruits of labors of unborn generations will be poured out to supply the necessities and comforts for the people of Germany. No one dare dream, without facing the accusation of insanity of a day in Japan when all of its pitiful, toiling millions—instead of supporting a military clique in charge of the Chinese government—support themselves on constantly mounting standards of living. No one dare dream of a day in Italy when the Italian people sweating and laboring, take their earnings for bread and clothes and a few simple pleasures instead of pouring it out upon a government that would restore the glory of ancient Rome, the glory built by marching legions, who fought and died and were covered by dust.

That Man Again

NO, IT'S crack-pot, dreamy-eyed, balmy, and insane to think of the rosy dreams of the future when unborn generations, toiling in the sun and in the rain, the heat and the cold, utilizing their labors to buy things for themselve ansd their homes, emerge into a sunlight that never before cast its warmth upon the earth. See that man again! See his lip curl contemptuously! See him look at you with pity! Read his thoughts and see the verdict, the sentence upon a poor, diluted, misguided, half-baked fool. And then a vigorous thwack to shake one from out of a trance and a dream! No twinkling lights in the Danubian valley stained with the blood of 50 generations; no twinkling lights in Europe. The world missed the boat and is safe in the hands of common sense.

PROBLEM OF MEDICAL STUDENT IMPORTANT HOME FRONT ISSUE

I am in receipt of the following letter from the father of a medical student which is self-explanatory:

"I am very much interested in what you say in the paper regarding the medical students who are now in the medical schools.

"I have a son in the Medical School at the University of Kansas and who will be in Kansas City this next semester. He, of course, has his rating as a second lieutenant but in no way is he in the Army. And what you say is absolutely true, the boys feel that they are more or less looked upon as slackers and they resent it very much. They want to complete their course, but it will take a long time and in the meantime they are still on the outside of things.

Financial Problem

"There is another side of it also and that is the financial side. This son of mine has been picking up a good share of his expenses during the summer months and while attending school. With this stepped-up program he will not be able to do so from now on.

"He is to be held there until he completes the course and that is going to be almost impossible as far as I am concerned. It is true that the Government has set aside a loan fund from which the boys mayl borrow, but that would not be sufficient to meet all expenses. I have a daughter in the university also and am unable to give my son much financial help.

"These men should be put in uniform and given pay commensurate with their standing.

"It seems to me that your suggestion is the solution to this serious problem."

Plan Under Consideration

The Surgeon General has just begun to consider proposals to put medical students in uniform and to pay them an ordinary army compensation, and probably by the time this article is published, they will be dressed and paid as privates, first class.

The Surgeon General may have felt that some of these students will not pass their courses and therefore they will have to be demoted. This, however, has happened before. In any case, if any one did not pass the courses, he could be easily changed to enlisted rank in the Medical Corps where his experience should make him very useful.

This situation of the medical student may seem to be a small affair, but it is a part of the incredible ineptitude with which the activities of the home front are being conducted. Another aspect of it is that up to this writing no provision is being made for medical students after the present classes have gone into action.

Draft Board Ruling

I know of a boy 19 years old whose father is a physician, whose family is able to support him through medical school, but who has been refused admittance to medical school by the draft board and told by them that 'just because a boy wants to study medicine, we are not necessarily going to allow him to study medicine in the future."

I believe that these problems are under consideration and I have great confidence in the good sense of the ranking commanders of the medical forces of the Army and Navy.

QUESTIONS

F. J. T.: My feet swell in the afternoon, not soft swelling, and they burn as if scalded and seem to be full of pins and neddles. Is that diabetes? I am 74 years of age.

ANSWER

The chances are that it is not diabetes, but possibly sluggish circulation due to varicose veins. However, it is very easy to find out whether diabetes is present by a urinalysis, which your doctor can make.

To Jump or Not to Jump

Give one who can't make up his mind
A little prompting from behind.
—Quill Pig the Porcupine.

When one does not know whether to go forward or back, because either way seems as bad as the other, he is said to be "between two fires." That is a bad place to be in. It certainly is. But Gray Fox would tell you that it is just as bad, if not worse, to be between two Porcupines. He knows.

For once in his life Gray Fox wished he had never learned to climb. If, like his cousin, Reddy Fox, he had been unable to climb he wouldn't be in the fix he was now in. He was half way up a tall hemlock tree. Above him was Quill Pig Porcupine. Below him was Mrs. Quill Pig. Quill Pig was slowly backing down. Mrs. Quill Pig was slowly climbing up. A thousand little spears peeped out from the coat of each. He looked down. Never had the ground seemed so far away, although he often had been higher in a tree than he now was. But never before had he even considered jumping.

"It is too far," he whimpered. "It is too far to jump."

Perhaps if he backed down nearer Mrs. Quill Pig he could jump from there. He went down as near Mrs. Quill Pig as he dared go. Somehow the ground seemed just as far away as before. Of course it wasn't. It was just fear that made it seem so. Mrs. Quill Pig, who had stopped climbing when he started down, began to climb again and the thousand little spears in her coat rustled in the most unpleasant way. Hastily Gray Fox climbed up again.

He was whimpering now. Yes, sir, he was really whispering. No longer was he the self-satisfied Fox who had climbed that tree and thought himself so smart. He didn't feel smart at all now. Was ever a Fox in a worse fix? It was not only that he was afraid to jump from such a height; he was also afraid of what might happen even if he made the jump unhurt. He was afraaid that he would be jumping from one kind of trouble into another kind of trouble just as bad. The voices of two Dogs on the trail of his cousin, Reddy Fox, sounded louder and louder. It means that Reddy was leading them back that way. Should he jump Reddy would be sure to switch those Dogs onto his trail. Reddy was smart enough to do just that.

He stopped and looked up; he grinned

"Oh, dear," whined Gray Fox, "I wished I knew whether to jump or not to. If I do jump I can climb another tree. But that wouldn't do. No, sir, that wouldn't do. They would stay at the foot of the tree and bark for their masters to come with dreadful guns. No, sir, that wouldn't do. I would be worse off than I am now, and that is bad enough, goodness knows. If I must jump the sooner I jump the better. But perhaps I won't have to jump. Perhaps those Quill Pigs will change their minds. If I must jump perhaps I can wait until after those Dogs have passed. Once they have gone by I won't need to worry. Oh! oh! What is that cousin of mine up to now?

Reddy Fox had come in sight. He was running easily. Once he stopped to listen to the Hounds baying on his trail. Then he came on straight toward that tree where Gray Fox was. He stopped and looked up. He grinned. He came straight to the foot of that tree and stood with his forefeet against the trunk. He was going to try to scramble up on one of the lower branches? No, he was too smart to do that, too smart to get himself treed. He began running about this way and that, crossing and recrossing his own trail many times right near that tree. He was mixing his trail. At last he leaped to the top of an old stump and from that jumped as far as he could onto the old trail made by himself and Gray Fox before the latter had tricked him by climbing the tree. He had brought those Dogs back and broken his trail right at the foot of that tree.

Gray Fox knew that if he was to get out of that tree he should do it before those Dogs got there. Should he jump or not? Once more Quill Pig began to back down. Mrs. Quill Pig began to climb up. Never get between two Porcupines.

RETURN.

Now back we go,
As to and fro
Life's pendulum swings,
From pleasures vain
We turn again
To surer things.

We've had our fun.
But now we're done
With dance and song.
The time demands
Constructive hands
And bodies strong.

A little less
Of pride in dress
And more and more
To find anew
Old truths still true—
Now—as before.

The temple spire,
The cheery fire,
Our daily bread
And thinking plain!
Of luxuries vain
These joys instead.

But if soldiers are used as farm help, will the farmer get free labor or will the soldier get double pay?

People can't agree on any issue of importance unless they have the same degree of ignorance.

REFINE NEBRASKA OIL IN NEBRASKA

FALLS CITY, Neb., Feb. 13—(AP)—Nebraska has won its fight to have crude oil from Nebraska wells refined within the state. Notice was received here yesterday that the federal petroleum co-ordinator's office has directed the Skelly Oil company to cease shipping crude to Minneapolis, and a similar order is expected for the Ohio Oil company.

Oil men said the order means Nebraska refineries, capable of handling the entire output of approximately 3,200 barrels daily from southeast Nebraska wells, will be able to operate nearer capacity. They have been handicaped, it was said, by a lack of crude because of producers' commitments to ship out of the territory.

Former Governor Weaver of Falls City and the chamber of commerce were credited with an important part in obtaining the ruling. Weaver went to Washington to discuss the problem with Interior Secretary Ickes' undersecretary and other officials. The trip was financed by the Falls City chamber of commerce.

Principal Nebraska refineries are the Midstates refinery here, the Nebraska Producing and Refining company's plant at Salem, and the Searle refinery at Omaha.

Interstate Rationing Setup Is Displeasing To Congressman Stefan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Two midwestern congressmen—an Iowan and a Nebraskan—today predicted widespread resignations of local rationing officials as a result of their states "being chopped up," in the establishment of district OPA offices. Representatives Jensen (R-Ia) and Stefan (R-Neb) characterized the announced protest resignations of two Council Bluffs rationing board members as "only the beginning."

While Jensen is opposed to the transfer of jurisdiction over southwestern Iowa counties from the Iowa state office to the newly created Omaha area office, Stefan is complaining about northeastern Nebraska counties being shifted to a district with headquarters at Sioux Sity.

Two Girls and a Man

by LOIS EBY and JOHN CHESTER FLEMING

Chapter Twelve.
Brand New Job.

As Rita pushed through the heavy revolving door of the Taylor Publishing company a wave of familiar emotions swept over her. The elevator boy recognized her, and touched his cap.

"We've missed you around here, Miss Ralston."

"Thanks, John," Rita smiled, "I've missed all of you people, too."

The car came to an abrupt stop and Rita walked toward the frosted glass door marked, "Executive offices." As she pushed open the door the girl at the switchboard let out a cry of surprise.

"Well, blow me down, if it isn't Rita Ralston in person! How are you, honey? Where the world have you been hiding?"

"Oh, I've been keeping house for my father ever since I left," Rita said, and then she hesitated for a moment. "My father died last Sunday night."

The girl at the switchboard reached out an understanding hand and took Rita's hand in hers.

"Gee, I'm sorry. It was just a year ago that I lost my mother. I know how tough it is." And then she brightened as she saw Rita struggling with a smile through eyes that were misted with tears. "Everyone will be glad to see you, Rita—you know the gang here sure liked you. After you'd left everyone in the office asked me what happened to that Ralston gal that had looks and brains and didn't know it!"

Rita laughed. "I consider that a very great compliment. Katy, you haven't changed a bit."

Just then several of the girls recognized Rita and left their typewriters to welcome her. As the word spread that Rita was back the circle around her enlarged. The low buzzing of voices rose to a jabbering din. In the midst of it an inner office door opened and a striking looking man in his late fifties stood framed in the doorway. He cleared his throat as if in kindly warning.

"What's all this hullabaloo?" he shouted.

Job for Rita.

Someone said, grinning, "My gosh, the boss!" And the crowd, goodnaturedly, started to file back to their desks, leaving Rita standing alone! When Mr. King recognized her, he came striding forward, beaming broadly.

"Well, Miss Ralston, seems good seeing you back." He gave her a friendly hand and together they walked into King's office.

After the office door was shut and Rita was seated across the wide expanse of shiny desk Mr. King lighted a fresh cigar and tilted back comfortably in his swivel chair.

"Well, start at the beginning and tell me all about yourself," he said.

"There isn't much to tell, really," Rita egan, lifting her large brown eyes to meet King's squarely. "After I left here I went back to the ranch to keep house for my father—"

King interrupted, "I saw in the papers about your father, I'm sorry, Rita—it's something that comes to all of us."

"Well, that's all there is," Rita continued. "And here I am drifting around with my sail and rudder gone not knowing quite what to do."

"You know what I told you when you left?" King offered.

Rita nodded.

"Well, it still goes. As long as I'm editor of this outfit you can always have a job." King was emphatic.

"I don't know why I should ever get down with friends like you around."

In the brief moment of silence that followed, a high shrill voice rose in the adjoining office.

"That makes the homecoming complete!" Rita smiled. "Sounds like none other than the eminent author and playwright Carlos Edward White going into his routine!"

King's face was registering amusement.

"None other! He usually waits until he gets into my office to explode. Halsey will get a taste now of what I've had to put up with for years! If the old goat didn't turn out best sellers that mean thousands of dollars to the Taylor Publishing company I would have tossed him out on his ear years ago."

"It's only his bark," Rita replied. "He wouldn't hurt a flea."

More Bark Than Bite.

Just then the door between the two offices opened and shut gustily. Glaring with black, beady eyes, set in a florid face half ambushed by a snow white Van Dyke beard, stood Carlos Edward White.

"And just what goes on in here?" he shouted. "Is this all editors have to do, sit on their royals in cozy, plush offices and tete-a-tete with beautiful women?"

Carlos raised his arms heavenward, closed his eyes, and in a voice heavy with melodramatic inflection he muttered, "Oh, Father in Heaven, why, why, is the world so against me? First I make the irrevocable error of becoming an author instead of an editor and now I can't even find a secretary who'll write the golden words all the world is waiting to read!"

Carlos shrugged his shoulders in a gesture of hopeless abandonment and wiped imaginary tears from his eyes, then started to rant again.

"I can't be dashing all the way up here from Carmel every other day to run down some dizzy-headed secretary! I have important work to do!" He whirled and faced King. "King, there's only one answer, you'll have to let me have your best girl until my play is finished!"

King gestured toward Rita.

"Rita, here, is the best girl we ever had but she's allergic to maniacs."

"Wouldn't have her, anyway," Carlos bellowed. "Never saw a girl yet that had worked for a publishing house that was worth a bent penny."

Rita flashed a provocating grin at him. "I'm considering the source, my dear Carlos, from which that crack came."

"Considering be damned, when do you start work for me?"

"I told you, Carlos," King cut in, "Miss Ralston has just promised to come back as my private secretary."

"Taylor be damned, must I find a new publishing house just so I can get a new secretary?"

"It's entirely up to Miss Ralston," King said. "If she has completely lost her mind and prefers working for you instead of me she goes with my sincerest condolences."

An amused look was playing about Rita's lips as she spoke. "It might be quite a tonic for me," she said softly.

King nodded. "It would be a tonic all right — like arsenic — would end all pain."

Carlos looked at King through narrowing eyes. "You know, King, if you weren't so obnoxiously insulting to me I'd take my work to someone else." Both men laughed.

"When do we start for Carmel?" Rita asked. "I could be ready in an hour."

"An hour," Carlos boomed. "I could write an epic in that time. Meet me downstairs in fifteen minutes."

Hog Raiser Lists Woes In Answering Suit For Feed Bill

It was during the drouth of 1936. And Orval Iiams in parched Boone county found himself without feed for 140 hogs. But he listened to the radio and soon came the solution. He heard the radio saying that 300 pounds of hog meal would produce 100 pounds of pork and that no other feed would be required.

He relied on his trusty radio and found its representations corrobrated by the agent of the Ralston Purina company at Albion. So he signed an order for 42 tons of the meal costing $2234.40.

In a brief filed in Supreme court Friday he declares that the meal was defective. He says that in order to keep the hogs alive he had to feed 200 bushels of barley, $200 worth of buttermilk, 100 bushels of seed corn, and $10 worth of skim milk. He paid the meal company $980.75 on its account. He says that counting the value of the hogs in the beginning at $630, he found himself with a total investment in hogs and feed of $2,280.75, not counting the additional money he was owing the meal company. He received from the sale of the hogs $2,249.68 and lost $31.07.

The jury in the case gave the Ralston Purina company a judgment of $359.89. But the Ralston company, wanting its full amount, appealed the case to the supreme court.

Protein Shortages Discussed At Farm Front Conferences

That shortage of protein feeds and of labor and machinery showed up again yesterday as the "farm front" meetings continued over the state. Several hundred farm folks gathered in York and Thurston counties for the sessions.

Farmers at the York meeting, some 250 strong, indicated they still are not getting enough protein supplements. A carload of soybean meal which arrived in York during the day was gobbled up within a few hours.

Specialists Advice.

Extension service specialists speaking at the meetings suggested the necessity of growing more proteins right on the farms in 1943. W. W. Derrick advised the use of more ground alfalfa is rations to overcome the lack of commercial proteins.

Extension Dairyman M. N. Lawristson said 10 per cent of the farmers attending the meeting indicated they would milk more cows in 1943 if more labor was available to do the job. Increased interest over 1942 in victory gardening was evidenced by the questions fired at Extension Horticulturists E. H. Hoppert. Other speakers included J. R. Redditt, G. T. Webster, Nelson Rocke and Dorothea Follmer

County Agent Paul Sinda was in general charge of the big York meeting. The York chamber of commerce cooperated by furnishing a free lunch at noon and almost ran out of food due to the great crowd.

Standard time was adopted by the United States Congress Nov. 18, 1883.

Yankee Amputates Leg Of Comrade With Pocketknife

...Nazis Lift Fire In Apparent Respect For Courage

By NOLAND NORGAARD.

WITH U. S. FORCES ON THE TUNISIAN FRONT, Feb. 10—(Delayed)—(AP)—Fighting in the first real battle he had ever seen, Lieut. Walton Goodwin of Richmond, Va., directed the abandonment of his wrecked tank, amputated a wounded comrade's leg with a pocket knife and then carried the wounded man across a battlefield commanded by enemy machine guns.

Apparently even the Germans respected his courage for their machine guns ceased firing long enough for Goodwin to carry his burden to safety.

Goodwin's platoon of light tanks was well ahead of other United States units in last week's battle for Sened when two of the machines were knocked out by German anti-tank fire. Goodwin's own tank hit a mine and was wrecked.

Goodwin used smoke grenades to hide his movements from the enemy gunners and then remained behind, attempting to cover his crew with a machine gun while it ran to a nearby scout car. The others had barely reached the car when it was struck by a German mortar shell and two men were killed. A third managed to crawl 20 yards with his leg nearly severed.

Goodwin crawled through a rain of fire to the wounded man and decided the shattered leg had to be amputated before he could be removed from the field.

He shouted for a knife and Sgt. Alfred A. St. Germaine, a full-blooded Sioux Indian from Cincinnati, O., whose father served in the first World war, ignored enemy bullets to run across the field with a pocket knife.

From a first aid kit, Goodwin administered morphine and applied sulfanilimide to the wound and then amputated the leg. He put the wounded man on his shoulder and started to run for cover. Suddenly the German guns were silenced and fire was withheld until he had crossed the brow of a hill and was out of range.

Sgt. William E. Morgan Dies of Heart Attack

Word was received Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Otis Field, route 5, Lincoln, of the death of their son-in-law, Master Sgt. William E. Morgan, 48, at Corsicana Field, Tex., from a heart attack.

Sgt. Morgan married the former Dorothy Grace Field here two years ago, and since then they have made their home in Corsicana. He entered the army in November, 1917, serving in Hawaii China, the Canal Zone and other areas, and for the military detachment at his present post.

Scientists in India who worked on the problem of warm clothing for the growing Indian Army discovered a process of treating cotton cloth with the seeds of two native trees, and have produced a finished product that is warm, soft, and durable.

The Statue of Liberty was unveiled on Bedloc's Island in New York harbor Oct. 28, 1886.

LONG-TIME EXPERIMENT . . . The 100,000-hour, high-temperature creep test, completed at the Schenectady Works of the General Electric company, is the longest test of its kind ever recorded. In case of trouble, an ingenious alarm system lighted a red lamp and rang a bell to summon a watchman who would telephone one of the three engineers. Frank Lorenz, personally connected with the test from its start, has made a number of hurried trips to the laboratory in the middle of the night. Such tests are necessary for improving the design of steam turbines so they can operate at higher temperatures.

Your Federal Income Tax

Business and Professional Income.

Individuals engaged in business or profession report the net profit (or loss) in their individual income tax return Form 1040. The net profit (or loss) is entered in item 9 of the return form and the entry must be supported by the information called for in Schedule H, or by other schedule particularly adapted to the business or profession.

In reporting income from business or profession, all income so derived must be shown in the schedule. In arriving at net income or less, the taxpayer may use the method of accounting regularly employed in keeping the books, so long as such record is reasonably consistent and clearly reflects the income.

In the case of farming operations, if the taxpayer is using the cash basis, Form 1040F, "Schedule of Farm Income and Expenses" is required to be filled out and filed along with Form 1040. Use of Form 1040F is optional in the case of farmers who use the accrual method.

It should be noted that incidental transactions entered into for gain, such as the buying and selling of securities where one is not in the investment business, do not constitute "trade or profession." Gain or loss from such operations are reported in item 8 and item 10 of return Form 1040.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By WALTER KIERNAN.

Well every once in a while the mayor of New York tosses off a good one and this one is good. "I don't believe in making the state the father and mother of the child" was the way he put it.

There's something in there for the social planners who are trying to tie a mother Hubbard around Uncle Sam and give him the baby's bottle to warm.

Hoover's two chickens in every pot prosperity was milk ointment compared with the latest dream of an endowment policy with every bassinet.

What a fine sturdy people we would be if the dough arrived regularly whether or not we put our back into the job!

What a brave bright new world it would be with the mail man dropping by regularly wifh the check and the old man whining that the government ought to pay in cash so he wouldn't have to put his shoes on and go to the postoffice!

That's not the average American's dish of tea. That's for the spoon-fed whiner who goes "looking for a break" with his eyes closed.

Thought for the day: The world still pays off on work!

'Didn't Know Legal Rights,' Prisoner Says, Asking Writ

Roy Stinehagen, who escaped from the penitentiary on September 5, 1939 and is now back in again, asked the Supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus for his release.

His troubles began, he says, on May 7, 1939 when he was arrested by the marshal of Broken Bow. He says he found two charges against him, one of failure to make a $20 payment toward the support of his three children, and the other, that of passing a no-fund check. He says that the county attorney told him that if he would plead guilty he would not get over one year, and if not satisfied with the sentence after 990 days, he could come back and stand trial. He pleaded guilty in county court and was bound over to the district court of Custer county. But he says that he does not quite understand how he was finally sentenced in Kearney county to three years.

He escaped from the power house of the penitentiary September 5, 1939, and was re-arrested in Arizona August 1, 1941. He says that he was placed in solitary confinement for thirty days. He was sentenced to two more years for attempting to escape.

His troubles began, he declares, because he did not understand his legal rights at the time of his first arrest.

Your Federal Income Tax

Depreciation (Part 2).

The "useful life" of a property, for Federal income tax purposes, is considered as its term of use for the purpose designated. Complete exhaustion of a property is not required in estimating the annual depreciation, but if it possesses salvage value at the end of the useful life, this value must be taken into account in determining the depreciation rate. Thus, the useful life of a rental building would be its useful rental life, though at the end of that period it may possess scrap or salvage value which must be taken into account. For the guidance of taxpayers, the Bureau of Internal Revenue has prepared a bulletin (Bulletin F) setting forth bureau practice in regard to depreciation deductions and estimated useful life of various types of property.

After the estimated useful life of the property has been determined, the capital sum to be recovered may be charged off over the period, either in equal annual installments or in accordance with any recognized trade practice. The amount so charged off must be used to reduce the cost (plus any additions and betterments) or other basis at which the property is held, and if the property is subsequently sold or exchanged, that reduced basis becomes the adjusted basis for determining the gain or loss on the sale or exchange.

If it is clearly shown that, because of economic or other conditions, property must be abandoned at a date prior to the end of its normal useful life, so that depreciation deductions alone are insufficient to return the cost or other basis, a reasonable deduction for obsolescence may be allowed in addition to depreciation.

As stated above, depreciation allowances are based upon the cost "or other basis." If the property was acquired by purchase after Feb. 28, 1913, the cost is the basis. If acquired by purchase prior to March 1, 1913, the basis is the cost of the property less depreciation sustained prior to March 1, 1913, or the fair market value on March 1, 1913, whichever is greater. If the property was acquired by gift after Dec. 31, 1920, the basis is the same as it would have been in the hands of the donor or the last preceding owner by whom it was not acquired by gift.

While land, as stated above, is not ordinarily depreciable, an allowance corresponding to depreciation, known as depletion, is permitted in the case of mineral property from which minerals (including oil) are being extracted. In the case of certain farming operations, requiring expenditures to maintain the productivity of the soil, such as orchards, where regular replanting must be practiced, or farm land requiring periodic clearing or drainage or application of fertilizer, depreciation deductions to recover the sums may be permitted in accordance with the exhaustion of value, if the amount so expended in developing the property for use is treated as a capital expenditure.

Chicago Livestock

CHICAGO, Feb. 13—(AP)—

There were only 500 head of hogs offered for sale today, not enough to make a market, and prices were quoted as nominally steady. The quotable top was $15.50, equal to yesterday's practical high although a few head brought $15.60 in that session

Average price of hogs yesterday was $15.30 compared with $15.24 a week ago and $12.66 a year ago.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard ordered all federally inspected packers to set aside 50 per cent of their weekly production of lard for sale to the food distribution administration, which buys for the armed forces and lend-lease agencies.

Livestock circles considered it probable that the order eventually would be extended to pork meats. Failure of hog runs to come up to expectations, it was stated, has made it difficult for government buying agencies to get all the lard and pork they need. They said this problem ties in directly with "black markets," which are receiving slaughter material which normally would come to established markets.

CORN UP AND WHEAT LOWER

CHICAGO, Feb. 13—(AP)—

Buying by a broker with mill connections gave rye prices a run-up of almost a cent in the final minutes of trading today, featuring an otherwise dull session. Wheat sagged slightly and corn held firm. Little interest was shown in oats.

The upturn in rye was supported by a scarcity of offerings. Some traders said they felt the feeding demand for rye grain had improved. At the tsart of trading today open interest in rye toal 39,353,000 bushels, an all time high, compared with 28,764,000 bushels of wheat.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅜c lower, May $1.39⅞@1.40; July $1.33⅜; corn was ⅛-¼c higher, May 98⅝, oats advanced ⅛-⅜, rye gained ⅝@⅞c and there was no trading in soybeans.

'PENNY' ISSUES ARE IN DEMAND

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—

Swapping of low-priced utilities in large blocks enlivened today's post-holiday stock market and, while it was more of a churning session than otherwise, leaders generally displayed modest upward trends. "Penny" issues were all over the ticker tape at the start. There was a let-down in activity in the final hour, however, although volume for the short stretch of around 600,000 shares was one of the best in the past yeer. Forward shifts of fractions, with a few wider moves, predominated near the close.

Commission houses with many outside offices reported that much of the demand for stocks selling under $10 a share was coming from cities in the west and middle west and, it was intimated, considerable buying was from the public rather than professional operators. It also was observed that transactions for cash far outnumbered those of a speculative or margin character.

Wall streeters returned from yesterday's holiday cheered by the president's speech promising smashing blows at the axis. Actual war news still was an optimistic prop but the lengthy forward market swing was an argument for some further profit taking. Signs of a possible technical correction were seen in Thursday's heavy dealings wherein the Associated Press 60-stock average finished unchanged.

A number of new 1942-43 tops were in evidence today. Among these were American Power & Light, International Telephone, Electric Power & Light, American Water Works, Columbia Gas, Chrysler, Warner Bros., Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, Deere, General Electric and Johns-Manville.

Resistant were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Southern Pacific, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, International Harvester, United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, American Can and Westinghouse.

30 Million Workers Are To Be Shifted

order to keep civilian morale high.

2. By Manpower Czar Paul V. McNutt: The government will shift 30,000,000 citizens to new jobs, while adding 4,300,000 to the armed forces, 1,800,000 workers to munition industries, 300,000 to essential non-agriculture industries, and 900,000 to the farms. The total labor turnover will be 30,000,000.

3. By Food Czar Claude R. Wickard: The food situation is critical because of greater buying power at home and greater requirements abroad to our troops and allies; there must be more food rationing and at once.

4. By Lt. Gen. Joseph J. T. McNarney, army deputy chief of staff: The army will total 8,200,000 by the end of 1943, with 2,500,000 in the air force; an increase of 3,000,000 men this year. The army is ready to use its troops to "save crops which are in immediate danger of going to waste."

5. By Maj. Gen. James T. McSherry: The government will try to recruit workers from the 33,600,000 women now idle, after having recruited 3,500,000 in the last year. It will seek either to move 2,500,000 subsistence farmers off their farms or force them to grow food for public consumption.

McNutt Explains

McNutt, after describing how 4,300,000 men will be added to the armed forces—3,000,000 to the army alone—in the coming year, said:

"These additions to the armed forces are coming from some of these other activities. There will have to be replacements. Actually, we anticipate that this relocation which will take place, this shift, will mean approximately 30,000,000 replacements for us to handle. By replacements, I mean when one goes out of one industry and into another. I am counting the labor turnover."

Of the 3,200,000 additional workers needed, McNutt said all will be taken from less essential occupations. Some will come, however, he added, from the present army of 500,000 unemployed—though this army is full of cripples and incapacitated men.

Credit Available To Farmers Under New U. S. Regional Plan

Final plans have been completed, and emergency funds for war food production are now available to farmers through the Regional Agricultural Credit corporation and the U. S. D. A. war boards, Cecil M. Jacobsen, chairman of the Lancaster county war board, announced Saturday.

Farmers may obtain emergency funds as a straight loan on which the farmer pledges the collateral financed, or under an "advance" arrangement. Under the latter, the farmer contracts to produce certain special war crops such as soybeans, flax or hemp, and repayment is based solely on the income from this crop.

Plans Completed

Plans were completed at a meeting attended by county war board members and RACC loan representatives from Lancaster, Seward, York, Saline, Fillmore and Otoe counties, and representatives of agriculture agencies in these counties.

"These loans and advances are available to farmers and livestock men right now, and with a minimum of detail and red tape," said Jacobsen. He explained that the USDA county war boards will make the loans in each county and the farm credit administration will service them.

Details of the financing program may be obtained through county war board members, AAA committeemen, feed loan representatives, National Farm Loan association offices and emergency crop representatives.

Shares Credit Risks

"In making an 'advance' to finance a special war crop, our government has shown its willingness to share the credit risk with the producers of food in much the same way it is sharing the credit risk with the producers of tanks, guns, and planes. In such cases, farmers will be obligated to pay only to the extent of the value of the war crops produced."

19 CONVICTS MAKE BREAK FROM PRISON

...INJURE GUARD

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 13—(AP)—Nineteen white convicts, several described as desperate, escaped from the state penitentiary at Parchman early today after overpowering a night watchman and seriously injuring a guard.

Four of those in the break, largest in the penitentiary's history, were involved in a recent escape which ended when one was killed and three caught near Corinth.

Overpower Watchman.

Superintendent M. P. L. Love of the penitentiary said the men rushed the night watchman at the camp when he opened the door of the domitory type cage so the cooks could go to the kitchen to prepare breakfast for the prisoners.

After overpowering the watchman, the prisoners then took his keys and shot their way from the one story building.

They went to the home of the guard, a Srgt. Upchurch, just outside the wire barricade, and forced him to give them the keys to his car. When he sought to resist, they hit him over the head with a gun taken from the night watchman.

The convicts also commandeered a red state truck, Love said.

Fuehrer No Longer Signs Army Orders

...Generals Decide

LONDON, Feb. 13—(AP)—A usually reliable foreign source said here today that for the past fortnight all important German army orders have been signed by the high command instead of by Adolpf Hitler, indicating that the nazi fuehrer no longer is actively directing the army.

Hitler still retains the title of commander-in-chief, the informant added, and the daily German communiques are datelined "The Fuehrer's Headquarters" as formerly, but, he said, "it looks like the generals are making the decisions now, not Hitler."

The report, reaching here through underground channels from the continent, pointed out that there had been no report of Hitler appearing in public for a month and said there was information that he did not attend a general staff conference in Berlin last weekend.

"This leads to the belief that Hitler either has been given an ultimatum by his generals, who pointed out his military blunders, or that he has suffered one of his hysterical fits and is in ill health as a result of his Russian reveres," the informant said.

—TOKYO CLAIMS—

Japs Say 98 Ships Are Sunk

...In Last 6 Months

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—United States planes bombed the Japanese air base at Munda in the central Solomons three times Friday, the navy announced today, destroying a gun position and starting fires. These attacks raised to 63 the total on Munda since Nov. 23 when they started.

(By the Associated Press.)

Tokyo broadcasts, apparently seeking to divert attention from Japanese disasters on the Papuan peninsula and Guadalcanal, declared today the mikado's forces had sunk 98 allied warships and damaged 42 against a Japanese loss of 19 warships sunk and 16 damaged in the last six months in waters about the Solomons and New Guinea.

Domei sponsored the figures—far out of line with allied tabulations—after the Japanese imperial headquarters had issued a communique purported to cover losses of both sides between Aug. 7, 1942, and Feb. 7, "which have not been previously announced."

Concede Air Losses.

The imperial headquarters communique claims, recorded by the Associated Press in New York, were relatively modest, even conceding that the allies had an edge of 215 to 205 in the number of planes destroyed which had not been previously reported.

Disaster Pace For Hitler Quickening

waves of desperate German counter attacks were crushed.

The grave new threat to 250,000 Germans under virtual siege at Rostov and to another quarter million nazis in the Donets basin developed when Col.-Gen.Nikolai F. Vatutin's central Don armies planted the red flag at Kradnoarmeisk, only 70 miles from the north shore of the Sea of Azov.

In recognition of his brilliant exploits, Vatutin was promoted to a full general.

Other points reclaimed from the invaders included Voroshilovsk, in the Donets basin; Krivyanskaya and Shakhty, northeast of Rostov; and Timoshevsk, Novotitarovsk and Dinskaya, in the western Caucasus.

African Weather Bad

On the north African front, British headquarters reported that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's big guns pounded Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces in the southern Tunisia coastal region, below the Mareth line, while British Eighth army patrols fought axis armored cars farther south.

Bad weather continued to hamper operations, and there was still no indication that General Montgomery had launched his big push against the Mareth fortifications, 60 miles inside Tunisia.

General Montgomery's northern wing was last reported operating east of Ben Gardane, 20 miles inside the Tunisian frontier.

On the western flank of the 300-mile-long axis corridor, an uneasy quiet prevailed as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme allied commander, marshalled his forces for a climactic offensive which both President Roosevelt and War Secretary Stimson have indicated is near.

Front line dispatches said the Germans were throwing lavish quantities of their newest weapons into the Tunisian operations, including monster new Mark VI tanks weighing 42 to 62 tons and latest design planes rushed from nazi aircraft factories.

Meanwhile, London newspapers played up President Roosevelt's promise of "actual invasions" of Europe once the Tunisian campaign is ended, and his assurance that allied troops will "march in triumph through the streets of Berlin, Rome and Tokyo."

Noting that Mr. Roosevelt spoke of "invasions"—he used the plural twice—the London Star declared: "Hitler may find on his hands not a two-front but a multiple-front offensive."

Overnight, Britain's huge bombers again blasted German war foundries in the western reich and powerful RAF formations streaked across the English channel toward Calais this morning in one of the earliest daylight starts in weeks.

Factor, Bernstein Report To Jailors

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia. Feb. 13—(AP)—John "Jake the Barber" Factor and Henry Bernstein, both of Chicago, reported to the Linn county jail in Cedar Rapids at 11:25 p. m. Friday, just a half an hour before their 10-day stays of execution expired, to begin serving sentences of 10 and 7½ years, respectivvely, for their part in the million-dollar whisky warehouse receipts swindle.

Released Feb. 3 to settle personal business in Chicago, the two men will be taken to federal penitentiaries to begin their sentences as soon as U. S. marshals reveive orders where and when to take them. In addition to their penitentiary sentences, Factor was fined $10,000 and Bernstein $5,000.

Lincoln County Asks Rehearing On Assessments

"Dear Sir: As a result of complete reappraisal of city property in North Platte . . . your assessment for Lot 12, Block 7, Cody Add. 3rd N. P., has been increased from $810 to $1,235 for the year 1938."

When some 3,000 cards like that were sent out to Lincoln county taxpayers in 1938, the drouth suddenly came to an end and there was a storm and a rain. It was a storm of protests and a rain of some 700 written objections from taxpayers.

It all came about because the board of county commissioners, Virgil Thayer, Roy Hungerford and Ed U. Kratzenstein, made a contract with C. A. Emery, a resident of Scottsbluff county and the county assessor there, to do the reappraising of the property in Lincoln county. He received $1,025 for the job.

But, according to a brief filed in the Supreme court Saturday morning by Harry W. Speer and D. E. Martin, two of the irate taxpayers, the lower court was perfectly justified in stamping its disapproval upon the procedure and in holding that the county commissioners would have to return the money to Lincoln county.

The taxpayers say that in 1938 there was no assessment of any real estate in Lincoln county, that no records were delivered to the precinct assessors, that they made no assessments, and that the county assessor made none. It is declared that the diligent efforts of Mr. Emery resulted in the total valuation of property in North Platte being raised the sum of $528,870. What made the Lincoln county residents angry was the fact that an outsider did the job, some of them finding increases in their valuations as much as 15.4 per cent.

The county commissioners appealed the case, but the taxpayers say the decision was O. K. with them.

neapolis, said too often the public thinks of war workers only as those in defense plants, whereas everybody now is one.

She stressed the importance of food for our allies as a weapon almost equal to guns and ammunition.

Soldiers are eating from a quarter to a third more in service than they did at home. If one wonders why the government is clamping down on foods, he should know that it is because of huge losses in shipments overseas, the necessity of preparing in advance for armies that will invade Europe and the expectation of vast demands that must come later.

"Conserve Utensils."

Criticisms of waste in army camps are being heard, she said, and garbage is being weighed in typical camps to see if waste charges are true.

Miss Ruby Loper, agricultural engineer, extension service, University of Nebraska, and Miss Mary Runnalls, home management specialist of the extension service of the University of Nebraska, told of the need of conserving critical metal utensils.

"Don't let the boys kick the garbage cans about," Miss Loper cautioned, "for you may not be able to get another one."

Lumber dealers have only 29 per cent of the usual stock on hand, she said, and advised oiling stove pipes after the season's use, because the demand for American goods from abroad after the war may be expected to continue for more than five years.

Officers Named

A general session of student clubs, with Miss Alice Jeanne Dunlavy, presiding, listened to a talk by Miss Louise Enochs, textile and clothing division, State Teachers college, Kearney, on "The College and the High School Girl—Her Clothes and the War."

Miss Enochs said girls and young women have been responding to war service in remarkably capable ways. The group had luncheon at the Student Union.

Officers elected were: President, Gwen Row, Lincoln; vice president, Ilene Refshauge, State Teachers college, Kearney; secretary, Blanche Reid, University of Nebraska; historian, Barbara Rogers, student Kearney Teachers college; treasurer, Mildred Schmidt, student, Peru Teachers college; editor news letter, Mary Hetz, Wayne.

The following nominations were received for officers of the general association, one to be chosen by ballot for each office:

President-elect—Miss May Cook, Grand Island; Mrs. Helen D. Weise, Omaha.

Vice president—Mrs. Maude Coons, Omaha; Miss Marjorie Smithey, Hastings.

DOWN THE HEAVYWEIGHT TRAIL

Johnson—The Master Boxer

By JAMES J. JOHNSTON.
Manager of World Champions.

JAMES J. JEFFRIES retired unbeaten and bequeathed his world heavyweight crown to Marvin Hart, who was soon whipped by Tommy Burns. To prove his right to the title, Burns visited Europe and knocked out every champion or near-champion he could entice into the ring.

But there was a tall and terrific negro on Tommy's trail—Jack Johnson. He followed Burns half-way around the world, inviting him to defend his laurels. Burns finally sailed to Australia for a couple of matches and, to his surprise, Johnson soon turned up there. Tommy's afternoon tea didn't taste any too good the day he heard Johnson was in town.

They finally met to arrange a match and Johnson and Burns got into an argument. Burns became infuriated and threw an inkwell at Johnson, but Jack ducked it. The arena was packed for this first world championship in Australia.

Johnson, the master blocker and great boxer, tantalized Burns by talking to him during the rounds, asking him, after each jab, if he liked the Australian climate and played with him like a cat with a mouse.

Johnson jabbed and uppercut Burns until he was cut to pieces but wouldn't knock him out. Johnson wanted to give him a licking and he did just that for 14 rounds, until Burns could go no further. The title passed to Johnson, the first negro to wear it under the Marquis of Queensberry rules.

Joe Louis would have beaten Burns but Johnson, never. Burns was short and pudgy, could hit and was fairly clever, but slow. I consider Burns just a little better than the Spanish heavyweight Paulino Uzcudun.

Could Block Punches.

The art of blocking punches was a gift of Johnson. He could block blows right out of the air and then counter quickly, and if you weren't knocked out, you'd wish you were, for then you would be in for quite a bad licking.

His boxing ability was just the opposite of Louis. Johnson was a keen student of boxing. He would wait for you to lead, if you didn't, then he would try to make you. He was aggressive, wasted few blows, and when he led at you, he didn't miss. Joe Louis would be outboxed, outmaneuvered and badly beaten by big, strong, clever Jack Johnson.

Jimmy Johnston

This first negro champion was not as well advised as the second, Louis. Many mistakes were made, which were all blamed on Johnson. Louis has been perfectly handled. He is a great fighter and a credit to the boxing world and to his race, a man who makes no mistakes in or out of the ring.

College Football Standing Pat

—HEADS OF ATHLETICS SAY THEIR SAY—

BY HAROLD CLAASSEN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—Despite the army's ruling against student-soldier participation in intercollegiate sports, college officials today expressed a grim determination to carry on.

Col. Herman Beukema, director of the army's specialized training corps in Washington, explained that the soldier-athletes wouldn't have time for such extra-curricular activities and added "we are not sending the men there (to the colleges) to participate in big-time athletic programs."

His decision was the more stunning because previously the college authorities had hinted that soldiers sent to 271 campuses would be declared eligible to compete on the teams of those schools.

Hurt, But Not Killed.

Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner, said in Chicago, after studying the order, that "I'm sure that we will always be able to find 11 boys in every school who want to play football. College football may be hurt, but it won't be killed."

Virtually the same sentiments were expressed in the east by Lou Little of Columbia, Frank Thomas of Alabama and approved by spokesmen from the far west and southwest.

"Of course," continued Little, "we will have football. Calisthenics develops the boy, but competitive sport develops the man."

Thomas, whose Alabama elevens make almost annual pilgrimages to New Year's day bowl games, replied "army-navy programs have not figured at all in our plans for athletics next fall."

Penn to Stage Relays.

In addition, H. Jamison Swarts of the Pennsylvania relays announced that this spring's "two-day track carnival at Franklin field will go on regardless."

However, Asa Bushnell, director of the office of eastern inter-collegiate athletics, expressed regret at the ruling "because we have felt we could assist materially in the development and training of these younger members of the armed forces," and Athletic Director Bob Kane of Cornell declared that "it means the demise of intercollegiate athletics here for the duration."

Colonel Beukema said that the army would begin shipping its first student-soldiers to the campuses by March 1 and that the plan would be in full swing by April 1.

Trainees Kept Plenty Busy.

He estimated that at its peak approximately 150,000 soldiers would be attending college and that the men would have to meet the scholastic requirements of the schools to which they were sent.

Tests will be given at the end of each 12-week period and the men who fail will be returned to duty with the troops.

In addition to 24 or 25 hours of classroom work each week, the soldier-students also would be required to participate in five hours of military drill daily as well as an hour of athletics. He indicated that the athletics would be competitive but of the intramural variety.

Clash On Maples Tonight

Nebraska and Kansas to Have At It In Big Six Battle At U. Coliseum.

By DON KELLOGG.

Ever the supreme basketball test on Nebraska's home schedule, Kansas moves in tonight at the Hukers' coliseum stronghold. Tip-off time is 8 o'clock.

Perennially champions or co-champs of the Big Six conference, the Jayhawks will exhibit a continued array of stellar stars. Quite naturally, the illustrious Dr. Forrest C. Allen, his water bottle and all, will be doing duty on the sidelines.

Although Charley Black, the K. U. scoring ace, is reportedly out of the contest, the Jayhawks are distinct favorites to keep their league record spotless.

In gangling John Buescher, sharp-shooting Otto Schnellbacher and defensive specialist Ray Evans, Dr. Allen can count on a solid nucleus.

McSpaden For Black.

Armand Dixon will take the other guard stall, while Black's position will be handled by "Sparky" McSpaden, whose 5-9½ stature makes him appear to be a lost member of the Singer midgets in contrast to his brother giants.

What about Nebraska?

Coach Ad Lewandowski's Huskers not only plan to be around at game-time, but have toiled over blue prints that may keep them very much in the game.

Although winner of only three games in 10 starts, the Huskers have played better ball than a "paper" sizeup says they should.

Sooners Chasing Jays.

At the same time, Nebraska has a yen for meetings with Kansas, particularly on the coliseum maples. Should more than one of the Huskers "warm up" at the same time, Kansas could be made uncomfortable.

The Jayhawks have licked Oklahoma, Missouri and Iowa State thus far. Nebraska's record is conquests over Missouri and Kansas State, along with losses to Oklahoma and Iowa State.

If K. U. intends to remain abreast of the Big Six pack, it must triumph tonight. Should the Husker win and Oklahoma plaster Kansas State, as is expected, the Sooners could jump into the driver's seat.

"Commando basketball"—introduced by Wilbur Knight of the U. N. physical education department—will feature the intermission entertainment.

Whirly Not Running In New Orleans Handicap

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13—(AP)—Whirlaway is out of the $25,000 New Orleans Handicap to be run at the fair grounds track here two weeks from today.

Ben Jones, who trains Warren Wright's world money-winning champion, revealed this, saying his charge has not trained well and that it would be impossible to get him ready for his best effort.

Mickey Owen has had an operation to straighten a finger on his throwing hand.

Lincoln Fives In Action

Three Capital City High Quintets Slated Face Fire In Saturday Competition.

Capital City prep basketball quintets take their biggest splash of the current campaign tonight when Northeast, Lincoln and College View all dive into deep waters.

After dropping a 32-22 verdict to hitherto-winless Beatrice Friday night at Beatrice, the College View five will entertain Waverly on the Irving school maples tonight. Jim Porter, spearhead of the attack against Beatrice with nine points, will be counted on to shoulder the offensive burden. Game-time is 8:15.

Northeast At Benson.

Slated originally for Friday night, the Northeast-Omaha Benson fracas was shifted to Saturday night to accommodate a Bunny school program. Coach Cliff Bosley will rely upon his two top scorers, Cliff Squires and John Johnston, plus his prize guard, Dick Ward, for discontinuance of a three-game losing streak.

A 6-2 negro, Cliff Rose, heads the Bunny attack, which has bogged down for only one loss thus far.

Lincoln High At Tech.

Having digested 12 portions of their schedule without tasting defeat, Lyle Weyand's unblemished Lincoln high club goes under the fire of superstition and Omaha Tech at the big city tonight. Game No. 13 will pit a determined Tech club, previous loser in a "tighter than the score indicates" 38-25 game to the Links.

The regular Lincoln combination of Jacobsen and Krcmarik, forwards; McArthur, center; and Eager and Lodge, guards, will face the Maroons. Score of the College View-Beatrice game:

West To Carry on In Sport

Pacific Coast Conference Heads Declare Intention To Continue Competition.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13—(INS)—Adjustments to war-time conditions, but no end to football next season, was seen today by Southern California athletic officials.

Dr. John R. Olmstead of the University of California at Los Angeles, president of the Pacific Coast conference, said no definite action would be taken until the conference meeting in June, but "it is my belief that we of the Pacific coast will carry on intercollegiate athletics as long as there are men to do so."

His views were echoed by Edwin Atherton, Coast conference commissioner, who said, "We hope to hold intercollegiate competition in the conference as long as we can put teams in the field."

None Can Foresee.

Bill Ackerman, graduate manager of U. C. L. A., saw the prospect of considerable adjustment to conditions.

"No one," he pointed out, "can foresee right now just who will be left when the army gets through. It appears to me that the solution of our problem will be to play a localized schedule next fall, doing away with trips to and from the northwest."

Graduate Manager Arnold Eddy said the Trojans of U. S. C. would play all of their games "with only those athletes who are eligible, regardless of how many there are."

Death Comes Suddenly To Brother of Preston

FAIRBURY, Neb. 13 (Special)—The students of Fairbury Junior college today are mourning the death of Harold Preston, Jaycee grid ace and student, who died suddenly Friday night. Harold was the brother of Coxswain Fred Preston, who is now serving the navy and was a former Nebraska U. end. Harold had planned to go to Nebraska after the war is over and follow in his brothers steps. He was popular in Fairbury junior college circles and was a big reason why the Bombers won the Nebraska J. C. title last fall.

Bluebirds Charge In High Gear

Cathedral hogh continued to shine on the maple courts Friday afternoon by trouncing Teachers high, 50-15, for the tenth win of the season against two losses.

Big Ed McGovern of the Bluebirds established a sensational scoring high mark of 26 points in leading his mates to victory. Next top man was Forward Jack Minton with 18 tallies.

Losing only to Omaha Holy Name and Omaha St. Joseph, the Bluebirds will seek their eleventh victory at Hastings Sunday when they meet the St. Cecelia combination. Starting lineup will include Costello and Minton, forwards; McGovern, center; and Martin and Cades, guards. The score of the Cathedral-Teachers game:

BRANCH RICKEY, who could not make a better sales talk for the Phillies if he was getting commission than he did to the New York scribes the other day, argues the club will be an even better buy if the war forces baseball to suspend for a few years. "That would bring a leveling-off of teams," he maintains... 'The Yankees wouldn't be better than anyone else when they started up again."

In two seasons of its long history, the American league has recorded no triple play. The years were 1942 and 1933.

Joe Has First Glance At His New Daughter

CHICAGO, Feb. 13—(INS)—"She's awful little, but she's awful cute."

That was the Friday comment of Heavyweight Boxing Champion Joe Louis when he viewed for the first time his new-born daughter, Jacqueline, at Provident hospital in Chicago.

Peering at her from beyond the glass enclosure of the nursery, Louis, an army sergeant stationed at Fort Riley, Kas., said:

"Say, her face is scratched already. I gotta get her some gloves!"

The heavyweight champion headed out of Chicago Friday night for Burbank, Calif., where he is due to report Monday. On the west coast, Louis is to do a part in a movie, "This Is the Army."

String New Talent For Mat Show

Promoter Adam Krieger has stirred up a completely new mixture for the next grapple show at the fairgrounds arena Tuesday night.

Headlined in a two-of-three-falls match will be the popular Bill Kuusisto against Jimmy Coffield, rough-houser from Boston.

The semi-finals is an equal treat. "Cowboy" Jack Luttrell, former boxer, is slated to go against meanie Joe Dusek, Omaha.

Abe Friedman, Kansas City, and Joe Zhoronez have been signed to do the opening chores. Johnny "Billygoat" Lehl is scheduled to go against the new NWA champion, Bob Managoff, Jr., the following Tuesday.

Bombers Slap Down Concordia In Basket Mix

FAIRBURY, Neb., Feb. 13—Fairbury Junior college had little trouble in downing Concordia college of Seward here Friday night by the score of 36 to 27. The Bulldogs jumped into an early lead over the locals but saw it melt away in quick fashion. The score at the half gave the Jaycees a 20 to 15 yead.

In the rough last half, the Bombers built up their lead behind the steady work of Shipman and Stearns. Shipman led the Bomers scoring with 11 points, while Hufnagel and Joseph led Concordia with eight. Score:

Thompson Steps In To Manage Montreal

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(INS)—Fresco Thompson, a National league second-baseman for several years, today was installed as the new manager of the Montreal club of the International league. Falls City and Junior Jays On Lincoln's Trail

Falls City high's undefeated Bengals and Creighton Prep's once-beaten Junior Jays continued to keep within sight of Lincoln high, No. 1 Nebraska prep team, Friday night by trouncing Auburn and Omaha South.

Barney led the junior Bluejays to victory over South, 41-26, by scoring 13 points and "quarterbacking" the attack.

A late-game assault was required by Falls City to draw away from Auburn, 35-28. Captain Joe Hebenstreit paced the victors with 16 counters.

Conn Busy In Army Camp

—On His Job as Boxing Teacher—

BY ROBERT T. MOORE.

* * * * *

CAMP LEE, Va., Feb. 13—(AP)—The big, handsome glamor attracting all the attention doesn't mind if he's 15 pounds "overweight" because "I can use some extra poundage," and "I'm never too far from the peak of condition at any time."

Heavyweight Billy Conn, the "golden boy" of the ring, was doing the talking, and there were plenty of listeners around this army camp, where Corporal Conn is boxing instructor.

Conn stays in shape by working out with his students — a constantly growing assortment of leather pushers that includes such former promising professionals as Francesco Montanari and Italo Colonello.

Conn, who now tips the scales at 195 pounds, says he's taking his work as boxing instructor here just as seriously as he does his training for a championship fight, say, with Champion Joe Louis.

"If felt sorta funny when I first started coaching, but I soon found out that the boys in the army camps have plenty of what it takes," the Pittsburgh Irishman declared. "They seem to realize that a knowledge of boxing can prove highly important to them.

BILLY CONN.
Never Too Far From Peak.

"This war has made everyone more defense conscious than ever, and the boxing programs being fostered in army and navy installations throughout the country will give the ring pastime just what it needs—a 'shot in the arm.'

"The way I see it," Conn continued, "the boxing knowledge I may be able to give a soldier here could very easily be the means of saving his life when he gets into combat.

"He's got to learn to be resourceful and to be rough, tough and nasty when he come to grips with a Jap or a Nazi . . ."

Somebody bobbed up with the question, "What about Joe—Joe Louis?"

Conn didn't answer but went right on talking.

"Lots of these soldiers who never had an opportunity to see big time fights before, have taken a genuine interest in the battles of former professionals fighting in the training camps today," the husky Conn asserted.

The students say they have a "swell teacher," and Conn, a bit modest, comes back with, "Yea, and I learn plenty from the students.

"Now what was that about Louis?" Conn said, shaking his big first at one of them. "I can beat Louis. If the bout ever comes off, I know I can beat him."

Wesleyan Wallops Warriors

Paced by Merle Geis, who bucketed 14 points, Nebraska Wesleyan counted a second successive N.C.A.C. basketball win Friday night by downing the visiting Midland college Warriors, 33 to 25.

Geis turned in a near perfect performance. He fired eight times from the field. Six of eight wrinkled the meshes. In addition, he hit two for two from the charity line.

His main help came from Bill Miller, Everett Parminter and Bob Ketterer, who came up with sparkling floor performances.

Off to Slow Start.

Coach George Farley's charges were away to a slow start, but Midland was even more lethargic.

Jack Schwartz, Warrior ace, was slowed down by three fouls shortly after the half and then left the game with an overdose as 10 minutes remained.

The contest was marred by a total of 32 personal fouls being assessed. The score:

POODLE RATES TOPS WESTMINSTER SHOW

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—If fashions in dogs follow the Westminster Kennel club show, then the dog that is due for a rise in popularity is the miniature poodle—a pert little canine with a queer hair cut.

The poodle, miniature style, gained in stature last night when one of the breed, Mrs. P. H. B. Frelinghuysen's Ch. Pitter Patter of Piperscroft, was crowned best-in-show at the Westminster exhibition in Madison Square Garden. It marked the first time that the breed had gone up in the show dominated by wire and smooth-haired fox terriers since the big trophy was first presented in 1907.

'Babe' Back as Threat

—Again In Femme Golf—

BY DILLON GRAHAM.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—Maybe you didn't see that little item out of Los Angeles the other day. It was just a tiny squib—but big news for golf. It said that America's greatest all-round woman athlete was eligible for amateur golf competition.

So Babe Didrikson may be the gal to beat in the next U. S. women's golf championship, whenever that'll be.

The Babe, now Mrs. George Zaharias, was ruled ineligible by the U. S. Golf Association in 1935 because of her professionalism in other sports. Two years later, she applied for reinstatement as an amateur and now her request has been granted.

BABE DIDRIKSEN.

Babe was a golf star from the start, just as she was a stand-out in every other sport she took up. She shot a 95 her first round, soon chopped that down into the low 80s, and won medalist honors in the first tournament in which she played with a 77. Six months later she won the 1935 Texas championship.

Shortly afterwards, the U. S. G. A. barred her from amateur tournaments but she continued to play in open events and won the eastern open in 1936, the western open in 1940, and the San Francisco match-play open last year.

Famed As Long Hitter.

Babe quickly gained fame as a long hitter (she knocked out 200 yard shots with a putter under the impression it was a No. 1 iron). The last time we saw her play she was weak with the short irons, losing most of her strokes around the green. If she has improved her short game, she'll give any of the girls a battle and beat most of them.

A few years ago this observer saw Babe play in her first open tournament against men. It was at Hot Springs, Va., and we recall how a pair of name pros ruined their chances of winning by trying to outslug Babe from the tee—and failing.

That same tourney also saw the debut of another star, a local country assistant pro. This youngster grabbed the lead and held it for three rounds. He banged one into the woods in the last round, lost a half dozen strokes trying to get out, and lost the tournament to Billy Burke. The youngster's name was Sam Snead.

Made National Headlines.

Babe first caught the national headlines in 1930 when the women's national track and field championships were held in Dallas. She set U. S. records in the javelin and baseball throws, and finished second in the broad jump. Prior to that she had won local acclaim in basketball, boxing, bowling, football, tennis, baseball, gymnastics, rifle shooting, cycling, speed skating, handball and squash.

She was an all-America cage forward in 1930 and star of the national championship Dallas team.

And in 1932 came the Olympic games, with Babe winning first place in the high hurdles and the javelin throw. That really made her a national figure and established her as the country's top woman athlete.

Her name was used in advertising a commercial product and she was suspended by the Southern A. A. U. So she turned pro, although the A. A. U. soon reinstated her as an amateur.

Her advent into golf was purely accidental. She was on her way to buy a dress but as she passed a sporting goods store, her eye caught the shiny steel heads of golf clubs displayed in a window. She couldn't resist the temptation. So she postponed the purchase of a dress and bought the clubs instead.

Antelopes Pour It On Peru Quint

KEARNEY, Neb., Feb. 13—(AP)—Piling 16 points into their last five minutes of play, Kearney's Antelopes came within three points of matching their all-time scoring record in defeating Peru's basketball team, 77 to 59, here last night.

Kearney cagers, who scored 80 points in an over-time victory over York several weeks ago, took an early lead over Peru, but the margin wasn't wide enough for safety until the 16-point spurt got under way late in the game. Scoring honors, however, went to Peru's center, Yocum, who had 20 points, while McCullough's 15 points was tops for the winners.

The Cowboys cinched the title last night with their fourteenth straight win of the season, a 57-34 victory over the Aggies in the series opener at Laramie, Wyo. Milo Komenich, as usual, led the scoring parade with 16 points.
